

IS Studies Accreditation Problems and Challenges

Virpi Kristiina Tuunainen,
Professor of ISS and Director of Aalto Service Factory

Aalto University School of Economics

ECIS 2010 Pretoria

June 8th, 2010

Panel Questions

- Does accreditation add value to our program and courses?
- Who can be entitled to accredit our program and courses?
- Accreditation means that there is a benchmark. Which one?
- How will accreditation impact research in the area?
- Will accreditation improve what we deliver?

Does accreditation add value to our program and courses?

- Aalto University School of Economics:

Who can be entitled to accredit our program and courses?

- ASE, Department of Information and Service Management:
 - Bachelor's program on Business Technology
 - Master's Program on Information and Service Management
- Multidisciplinary programs:
 - Information Systems Science
 - Logistics and Service Management
 - Management Science
 - Quantitative Methods
- Aalto Service Factory:
 - Coordination of service education and programs in School of Economics, School of Science and Technology, School of Art and Design

Accreditation means that there is a benchmark. Which one?

- University level
- School level
 - AACSB
 - AMBA
 - EQUIS
- Program level
- Discipline level
 - AIS
 - ACM

How will accreditation impact research in the area? Will accreditation improve what we deliver?

- Aalto Service Factory approach:

